

NZHEA Networks of Expertise

workshop:

Incorporating health education into integrated approaches to curriculum design

Audience for the workshop:

Middle leaders and teachers in secondary schools investigating, planning or implementing integrated or connected curriculum design approaches.

Aims of the workshop:

1. To explore a range of models for including health education in integrated or connected curriculum design approaches (with consideration of both junior and senior/NCEA secondary programmes).
2. To network with peers to discuss successes and challenges for health education in this approach to curriculum design.

Date:

Monday 18 March, 2019

Time:

9.30am-3.30pm

Venue:

Kohia Teachers' Centre, Gate 1, 78 Epsom Ave, Epsom, Auckland.

Workshop convenor and facilitator:

Jenny Robertson

Cost:

NO attendance costs. Your school will need to cover any teacher release and travel that you require.

Morning tea:

Provided but please make your own arrangements for lunch.

Programme:

Morning:

- Brief overview of the range of approaches to curriculum design and some of the Ministry of Education tools and resources for this.
- Presentations from middle leaders and teachers from four schools who have implemented different approaches to integrating or connecting aspects of their curriculum (with time for Q&A).

Afternoon:

Semi-structured workshop sessions of your choice to network with peers and discuss programmes similar to yours; hear from peers who are at different stages of curriculum development and implementation; find out about useful tools and processes for planning and monitoring; plan questions to take back to school for those schools in developmental stages, or create frameworks for programme (re)design; etc.
