Introducing the New Zealand Health Education Association (NZHEA)

Kia ora. We are the subject association for Health Education teachers in New Zealand schools. We pride ourselves on being pro-active and being responsive to our members' needs to provide high-quality advice, guidance and resources to support Health Education teaching and learning. Some recent work to support Health Education teachers includes:

- Planning for a TRCC course for Health Education for October, 2020.
- A new website
- Continuing to contract our kaiārahi (subject leader/advisor) for one day a week
- Publication of a range of position statements and resources that can be used for PLD
- Guidance to support teachers with new specifications NCEA exams and teaching about pornography
- Resources for HPE scholarship
- Making or enhancing connections with a wide range of agencies and interest groups
- Networks of expertise funding from the MoE (2018-2020)
- Being involved in planning for the 2020 Primary Teachers' Conference in Auckland.

In 2020, in addition to 'business as usual', we plan to:

- Refine our strategic plan
- Continue our Networks of Expertise activities
- Develop a number of resources across a range of Health Education contexts – as needs arise
- Publish a new HPE scholarship resource
- Have a visible conference presence to support teachers of Health Education.

We hope that you will be interested in joining NZHEA, in order for us to have as loud a voice as possible, to continue to develop new resources, and to grow our Health Education community of practice in Aotearoa.

What do our members say about being part of NZHEA?

"I love the supportive, collaborative environment that essentially role models what we value in Health Education. It promotes a culture of sharing the 'gold' and helping each other through challenges we face."

"The resources provided by so many (through the Facebook group) and on the drive has helped so much this year, being in my first year of teaching with not much in my toolbox."

"I love the responsive nature of the community. Resources you provide when it is apparent they are needed and how the community here on Facebook respond to questions and requests from/to fellow members."

"Being able to bounce ideas off each other, building a local hub community as well as a national one."

"I like the access to resources for exam preparation, and the fact that you always know what's happening in the Health Education world. When I wasn't a member I felt so lost and alone in this area."

"NZHEA is a strong proactive community with an enthusiastic base of members which also gives NZHEA its strength. A positive is the willingness teachers have to connect, share and to build on ideas through different means for example my Kaiārahi role, cluster meetings or on Facebook. We recognise that there are individual needs and aim to support and develop teachers to reach positive outcomes for their own development and for student achievement."
